

Coming Home

By Costa Rodis

Your smile spills over me like summer air

When we meet after one day's parting. Green eyes

Electric you lift your hands

To frame my face.

Suddenly you throw your arms

Around me. My neck burns

With your quick breath.

The scent of your hair

Suffuses within me and I know,

I know I am home.